RE: Site Inspection, Centurion Mining Company, OK Exploration Project, M/001/039, Beaver County, Utah

Date of Inspection: Thursday, November 14, 1996
Time of Inspection: 10:30 a.m. - 12:00 a.m.
Participants: Casey Ross, Barry Katona, Centurion Mines; Tom Munson, DOGM

Purpose of Inspection: To evaluate site conditions

Following the inspection to Blue Mountain, we visited Centurion Mining Company's OK Mine. Previous exploration work was done in the last year. However, we are not counting that against the total project, since Centurion performed about 15 acres of exploration reclamation work during the last year on areas that was unknown as to who created the disturbance from past exploration projects.

We inspected the reclamation work for vegetation success. Some areas appear to be doing quite well. Indian ricegrass, some rabbitbrush and other plants I am not familiar with are coming up. There was also a fair amount of tumbleweed and other weeds growing, but being only the first year, we hope that they would be out competed by grasses. I informed them that if they felt the vegetation on these exploration projects was not coming along, they would want try and seed them at a later date.
